Personal statement

A university student with experience in work as a life guard, currently seeking a new role as a game developer. I am a hard worker and fast learner, which makes me a very efficient and determined individual. With experience in a public working field I already have experience communicating with customers and co-workers effectively with the best interest of both public and staff.

This experience in work combined with my experience going through university has proved that I am determined and focused and ready to take on the new challenges of the role as a game developer
